SESSION 1
POLITICAL AND STRATEGIC CHALLENGES
A FOCUS ON THE FUTURE TOWARDS CHANGE

A political-strategic arena where at the same time allies have to face the threat of Russia and other important geographic and planning challenges. This requires an indispensable consensus on the political functioning of the Alliance and on a coherent set of priorities. How to keep the necessary consensus and the centrality of the Alliance as an international security provider? How to strengthen its ITDB (Industrial Technological Defence Base)? What has to be redefined in the role of NATO? The most important political military alliance in history is driven by need and is able to adapt to emerging realities.

Chair: Daniela Irrera, Professor of International Relations, CASD, Rome *

- Thomas Erndl, Deputy Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, Bundestag, Berlin *
- Jamie Shea, Professor, Strategy and Security Institute, University of Exeter *

SESSION 2
REINFORCING THE PARTNERSHIPS IN THE SOUTH
A RENEWED STRATEGIC OUTLOOK

Partnerships are more relevant than ever to promote the priority of cooperative security. Those on the North Atlantic and Middle East have a special history. The partnerships in the Southern Region (Mediterranean Dialogue and Istanbul Cooperation Initiative) are crucial in countering Russia's initiatives in the Near East and Africa, secure the gateways to the Indian Ocean, prevent and manage crises that impact NATO's security and prosperity. How to intensify relations with the Arab League and the Gulf Cooperation Council? What crisis management strategy for Yemen, Libya and the Sabel? How to guarantee freedom of navigation beyond the Suez Canal?

Chair: Ian Lesser, Distinguished Fellow and Advisor to the President, The German Marshall Fund of the United States, Brussels *

- Ahmad Masa'deh, former Secretary General, Union for the Mediterranean, Amman *
- Abdulaziz Sager, President, Gulf Research Center, Jeddah *
